

Special Meeting Tonight

Mayor Jerry Jones, the city council, Economic Development Director Bill Hall, representatives from the city's environmental quality and planning and zoning commissions, and spokesmen for the Sedalia Downtown Merchants Association will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight in city hall with a representative of the Kansas City regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

According to Jones, the group will discuss current restrictions, stipulations and other provisions governing the federally funded Land Clearance for Re-Development program, formerly known as Urban Renewal.

The land clearance program essentially involves the replacement of undesirable structures in a particular location with a centrally-designed modern renovation plan. Such improvement, Jones indicated, is not limited to downtown areas.

The program, Jones continued, "parallels the original urban renewal program but features new programs that were not in the former program ... my understanding is that it is a much better program."

Although Jones said he called the meeting because "we (he and the council) had been thinking about it a long time," he added, "I don't look for a specific design to be formed one way or the other tonight because any decision will require much study after we get the information ... we plan to get an update of how the program works, what's possible under the new program, what the city's responsibility will be and so forth."

Although the city has never participated in the land clearance program, or its urban renewal predecessor, a master plan for future city development was completed in 1955 by Hare and Hare consulting engineers. This plan was updated in 1965.

Asked whether a second revision of the plan is in the offing, Jones said, "It (the discussion outcome) could possibly call for an updating but we aren't certain at this time."

Jones said tonight's meeting was not related to the scheduled arrival in November of Sedalia's first federal revenue sharing check.

"We can't use revenue sharing money in this case because they cannot be used as matching funds," he explained. Tonight's meeting will be open to the public.

Denounce German Release Of Three Arab Terrorists

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel denounced West Germany's release of three Olympic massacre terrorists and sent planes today to attack Arab guerrilla bases and an army base inside Syria.

Jets flew into Syria twice during the day. In the first attack they hit at guerrilla bases near Damascus, the capital. The Syrians responded to this with an artillery barrage on Israeli military positions. A short time later, the Israeli jets took off for a strike at a Syrian armored post and military warehouses near the Syrian Lebanese border.

Israeli spokesmen said the attacks in four guerrilla bases were not in direct retaliation for the Arab guerrilla hijacking of a West German jetliner Sunday that won the release from Germany of the Black September terrorists awaiting trial for the Munich massacre on Sept. 5.

The Palestinian hijackers claimed that they had mined the Lufthansa 727 jet and threatened to blow it up along with themselves and the 20 other persons on board.

"Our lives mean nothing to us," they had told the Germans.

The West German government said it acted out of consideration for the lives of the passengers and crew of the plane.

Israel's Foreign Minister Abba Eban, however, summoned the West German ambassador in Jerusalem and demanded an explanation from Bonn.

He contended the three terrorists are likely to strike again at Israelis.

"Their release is a blow to the memory and honor of our Munich martyrs," he declared.

Eban told the German ambassador, Jesco von Puttkamer, Bonn's "surrender" to the Arab guerrillas "constitutes a weakening of the international stand against terror."

Israeli newspapers called Bonn's compliance with the hijackers' demands shameful, dangerous and disgraceful. But a West German spokesman said Chancellor Willy Brandt's government felt the Israeli reproaches were "absolutely unjustified."

The Lufthansa 727 jet was expected in Frankfurt today after delivering the three freed terrorists and the two hijackers to Tripoli, the Libyan capital. The 13 other passengers and seven crew members were reported unharmed.

A senior Israeli cabinet minister called the West German government's capitulation to the hijackers a "dreadful, unforgivable act," and the Israeli Air Force raided four guerrilla bases within seven miles of Damascus this morning. But an Israeli military spokesman said the air attack was not necessarily in retaliation for the hijacking.

Two Arabs took over the jet early Sunday on a flight from Beirut to Ankara, Turkey and Frankfurt. They demanded release of the three terrorists who survived the attack on the Israeli team at the Olympics and ordered the pilot to fly to Munich to pick them up.

The plane reached Munich after refueling stops in Nicosia, Cyprus and Zagreb, Yugoslavia, but the hijackers refused to let it land, apparently because of the police cars, ambulances and other vehicles at the airport. The hijackers then ordered the jet back to Zagreb and made the pilot circle until the Germans flew the three prisoners to Zagreb.

After the freed terrorists were turned over to the hijackers, Yugoslav officials tried to bargain for the release of the passengers. But they yielded under threat and allowed the plane to refuel, and it took off for Libya.

"The liberated heroes of the Munich operation and their liberators landed safely tonight," the Libyan radio announced.

The German government said the hijackers identified themselves as members of the Black September organization, the same group that claimed responsibility for the attack at the Olympics, in which 11 Israeli athletes, a Munich policeman and five of the Arab commandos were killed.

The Israeli government asked the Germans not to release the terrorists, saying it would "aggravate the Munich disaster."

No Difficulty Seen With Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says the United States won't be ready to sign a Vietnam peace agreement by Tuesday, but doesn't think this will prevent an agreement "in due course."

"There is no question about the principal parts of the agreement," Agnew said Sunday. However, he added there "are just a few matters to be made 'crystal clear' between the parties before it can be made final."

South Vietnam's foreign minister, Tran Van Lam, said today his government won't sign until North Vietnam withdraws its troops from the South and until there is agreement on the exact role of a proposed National Council of Reconciliation and Concord which is supposed to maintain a cease-fire and supervise elections.

A tentative peace agreement to end the long war was worked out in Paris in negotiations between presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese envoys. North Vietnam is demanding that it be signed in Paris on Tuesday, claiming the United States earlier agreed on that date.

The proposed agreement does not provide for withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South, although U.S. forces would be withdrawn within 60 days after the agreement is signed. War prisoners in Indochina would be released in the same 60-day period.

Kissinger has said one additional negotiating session of three or four days will be required to work out a few details before the agreement can be signed.

A statement today by Hanoi's official newspaper said the United States has only "two choices," to sign the agreement worked out in Paris, or face intensified war. Viet Cong forces have mounted widespread new attacks throughout the South in recent days.

Other Communist countries, including Russia, joined in Hanoi's demand for a quick signing. Pravda said there is no justification for a delay in signing.

Pope Paul VI expressed hope Sunday that the agreement would bring true peace, adding: "We are now waiting for the great news of the truce of weapons and afterward that of a fraternal peace."

Agnew said on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program that he didn't think "anything will be signed Tuesday." He also said there is no substantial disagreement, and "I don't think the chance of it (the agreement) becoming unstuck is very great."

He said he does not think President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam will block the agreement.

However, there seemed to be major disagreement over the question of North Vietnamese troops remaining in the South.

Appearance By Dowd

Party Support Democratic Dinner Theme

By BOB ELLIOTT
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Calls for increased party support for county and state candidates and support for national office seekers highlighted a Democratic ham dinner and rally held Sunday evening in the Agriculture Building on the State Fairgrounds.

Gubernatorial hopeful Edward L. Dowd left his prepared speech to harangue the Nixon administration, and Rep. William Randall seemingly reversed an earlier stance and asked those present to get out and vote for presidential nominee George McGovern.

Randall was quoted as saying he was "180 degrees" from the platform and policies of Senator McGovern in a recent newspaper interview, but Sunday he said the circumstances of that interview and his entire statement were never released. The Fourth District Congressman said he does not agree with McGovern's views on abortion, defense cuts, marijuana and a share-the-wealth plan, but that he was even more in disagreement with the policies of President Nixon.

"Right now I see Senator McGovern as the lesser of two evils," Randall told The Democrat-Capital at the rally.

Dowd, arriving late from St. Louis where he had left the ailing Sen. Stuart Symington, who was originally scheduled to appear at the rally, expanded on his prepared speech and also attacked the Nixon programs.

He called the Russian wheat deal a "$600 million swindle of the American farmer" and the dismissal of the ITT suit by the Justice Department a "$400,000 payoff." He then said, "You've got to hand it to the Republicans, they think big."

Dowd also spoke on state issues, noting that "the people doing the loudest yelling about the patronage system now (Kit Bond and John Danforth) forget to mention they have participated in it themselves."

The candidate said he would implement a plan of acquiring the most talented personnel to man state government offices. "I intend to go to the universities, corporations, local governments and the professions to find people with the ideas, energy and administrative ability to meet the challenge of state government," Dowd said.

He also talked of his plans for the State Fair, which he said was not promoted enough outside the state. He proposed to increase the advertising budget, bring in more industrial exhibits and expand the length of the Fair.

Other speakers on the program included Joe Teasdale, unsuccessful Democratic gubernatorial candidate in the primaries; Kevin Eagleton, brother of Missouri's junior senator who is participating in the national presidential campaign of McGovern, and James Spain, Democratic candidate for attorney general.

Teasdale noted that he has been termed "the hatchet-man" of the Democratic party in the state, but defended his position, saying: "I am and always have been a good Democrat and believe in the coalition of people that make up the Democratic party."

Eagleton spoke in behalf of the McGovern-Shriver ticket, blasting Nixon's programs to curb inflation, retard unemployment and uphold farmers' parity. Noting the large campaign budget of both

Curtail Operations By 7th Fleet Force

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. 7th Fleet has drastically curtailed its naval operations against North Vietnam and withdrawn its cruisers and destroyers well below the 20th parallel in a further de-escalation to improve the climate for cease-fire negotiations, informants said today.

All Naval bombardment of the coast above the 20th parallel has been ended, and cruiser and destroyer strikes against the rest of the North Vietnamese coast have been limited, it was learned.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird confirmed last week that all air attacks on North Vietnam had been halted above the 20th parallel, including the areas of Hanoi and Haiphong, but he made no mention of any curtailment of naval bombardment.

Officials declined to comment today when asked if any action had been taken to deactivate the U.S. mines dropped in Haiphong Harbor. But other sources indicated no such action had been taken yet.

The 20th parallel is just above the port of Thanh Hoa, 85 miles south of Hanoi and 210 miles north of the demilitarized zone, but the farthest north U.S. ships are reported actively operating now is about 65 miles north of the DMZ.

The U.S. Command reported 120 fighter-bomber strikes in the southern panhandle of North Vietnam below the 20th parallel Sunday and said a Navy A7 was shot down 26 miles northwest of Vinh. The pilot was listed as missing.

In South Vietnam, the land-grab war continued in anticipation of a cease-fire.

The Saigon Command claimed government forces had recaptured 15 of 21 hamlets in the Saigon region seized by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, the chief spokesman for the command, also reported that an airborne government force had recaptured the district town of Dak To, 25 miles northwest of Kontum in the central highlands, but he indicated the occupation might be only temporary.

Government forces lost another base 15 miles north of Dak To. Hien reported that the Dak Seang frontier camp was abandoned by remnants of a ranger battalion late Sunday night after a 1,000-round shelling that destroyed 80 per cent of the base.

The shelling was followed by a ground attack, and radio contact was lost with the survivors. A spotter plane saw a group of rangers from the base walking southward this morning.

For the fifth successive day, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces made more than 100 shelling, terror and ground attacks across South Vietnam in an apparent attempt to pressure the United States into signing a cease-fire agreement on Tuesday. But Washington held out for more negotiations.

Ann Landers

Should Consider Emotional Aspect

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from "Miss Mess," the girl with the lousy complexion, could have been written by me. I am 16 and miserable just as she is, only worse.

My personality is good. I have a sharp sense of humor and I enjoy music and sports. I have pretty eyes and hair and a good figure. But my skin is so terrible I turn guys off. I haven't had a date in six months.

I've tried all the creams, soaps, diets, and even that miserable salt treatment that hurts like blazes, but still I look gross. Girls who have nice complexions don't know what it means to wake up in the morning and see a new crop of blackheads and pimples, and all those sickening lumps. I'm so depressed I want to go soak my head in a rain barrel.

I think it's rotten that boys can't see what's behind a girl's face. Why should a girl's skin be THAT important? Don't give me any medical advice, Ann. I don't want it. Just tell me how to live in a world where a girl with a bad complexion might as well be dead. — Another Mess.

Dear Mess: No point in trying to get through to you, honey. Maybe this next letter will break the sound barrier.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell "Miss Mess" that twelve years ago I was where she is now. No girl had a more hideous complexion than mine. It's still far from peaches and cream, but I've learned how to think about it. The old expression, "Beauty is only skin deep," was invented for me.

First, I put myself in the hands of a good dermatologist. He pointed out that I broke out when I was unhappy, frightened or angry. I also picked at my pimples when I was upset. This made them worse. He got me to go to a counselor who helped me forget about my skin and go to work on what was UNDER it. ME.

I soon realized that I was running around in a circle — that I had been blaming a lot of my unhappiness (and failure) on my complexion. A real eye-opener was the fact that I saw people around me with bad skin who were doing fine. I had to ask myself, "Why them and not me?"

Today I have a good marriage, a successful career and two daughters. Both girls, unfortunately, have inherited my bad complexion. But I'll know what to tell them if they get to feeling like losers. I'll just read them this letter. Thanks, Ann. — Skin Game

Dear S.G.: It's a good letter for anybody — male or female — who is depressed about the condition of his skin. And thank you for pointing out the emotional aspect. You did my work for me today.

Dear Ann Landers: This is a funny problem, but no one in our family is laughing. Tell us what to do, please. My uncle and aunt were married for 10 years. They fought like a couple of jungle cats and finally got a divorce. Three years later they decided to try again. They didn't remarry but they are living together. This arrangement has been going on for seven years.

They are giving themselves a 20th wedding anniversary party, ignoring the fact that they have been living in sin for the past seven years. What should we do? — Ashland, Ohio

Dear Ash: Go to the party and have a good time.

Restraint Shown On 'Today'

NEW YORK (AP) — The "Today" show on NBC blew a golden opportunity last week to get in some timely licks keyed to the increasing signs of peace in Vietnam. But the blow actually was for something rare in television news—restraint.

"Today" had planned to air a special two-hour Thursday edition centering on the administration's effort to free the 425 American prisoners the Pentagon says North Vietnam is holding.

Instead, Stuart Shulberg, the show's executive producer, postponed the POW program a day before its scheduled broadcast.

"It just struck us that this was a very inappropriate day to be stumbling around in an area that obviously was becoming a subject of intensive negotiations," he said.

"None of us want to upset any possibilities of the governments reaching a settlement."

And, he added shortly after the regular "Today" show finished Thursday, going ahead with the POW program would have been "either mischief making or idiocy because we would be into areas that might be academic tonight."

Three hours after he spoke, Presidential aide Henry Kissinger told Washington newsmen the U.S. and North Vietnam have agreed on most major provisions of a settlement of the Vietnam war and that "peace is at hand."

The U.S. POWs, according to a Hanoi broadcast, could be freed within 60 days after a negotiated settlement of the war is signed.

The "Today" POW program had as scheduled guests spokesmen for various peace groups, a POW family organization, and a Pentagon spokesman, Maj. Gen. Daniel "Chappie" James, a veteran of the air war over North Vietnam.

The show also planned to examine the history of prisoners of war, the Geneva Convention articles concerning POWs and whether those articles had been violated by Hanoi.

The show as planned may never go on. Shulberg said that if an agreement is reached on the release of the POWs, another show with a more hopeful content will be in the works.

It will concern, he said, a discussion of Pentagon plans to rehabilitate the POWs and "just talk more precisely about how they're going to be handled when they arrive home."

BREVIARY USE DOWN

TORONTO, Canada (AP) — Although priests are supposed to read the Roman Catholic breviary daily "under penalty of mortal sin," only 38 per cent of Canada's English-speaking priests still do so, according to a survey by Laval University. However, 77 per cent of priests over 50 years of age still adhere to the discipline.

Tight Squeeze

It's bad enough to have to carry the Sousaphone in the band, but it's even worse when you have only a "bug" to haul it around. Three students at Central High School in Macon, Ga., solved the problem by opening the sunroof and letting the instruments travel in the open air. Here they check the instruments before a practice session.

Searching For More Voters

BOSTON (AP) — "Somewhere, out there," said a registered Democrat with a Nixon button on his hat, "there's a lot of people in my party who won't vote for McGovern. Our job is to keep finding them."

This belief that many Democrats in heavily Democratic Massachusetts may be disenchanted with their presidential candidate has sent canvassers of both major parties on a house-to-house walk across metropolitan Boston.

Results of the surveys depend upon who's talking. Republicans say President Nixon will win Boston. Democrats say that's absurd.

In any case, the canvassing effort is massive, particularly an upper middle class and in Italian, Irish Catholic and Spanish neighborhoods. Sen. Hubert Humphrey did well enough in these neighborhoods in 1968 to defeat Nixon in Boston 171,000-41,000. Over-all, Humphrey won the state nearly 2-1, compiling a 700,000-vote margin.

The estimated 20 per cent of registered Democrats and independents in Boston who remain undecided hold the key to Massachusetts' 14 electoral votes. Canvassers say the number of undecided is declining, however, and Sen. George McGovern is the apparent benefactor.

With the Republican canvassers, party labels are conspicuously absent. With the McGovern volunteers, the theme is both one of coming home to the party and of supporting "the man for the people."

Early reports of Nixon's apparent strong position in the West Roxbury section led to increased Republican efforts throughout Massachusetts, where a poll taken in early October gave Nixon 48 per cent of the vote and McGovern 44 per cent.

Those who claim to be decided can expect visits from party workers on Nov. 7. It is their job to get out the vote.

Both sides are continuing daily, house-to-house canvasses. End Adv Mon PMs, Oct. 30.

China Is More Crowded, But Its People Are Different

PEKING (AP) — China is people, staggering millions of them, spilling into the streets, thronging the eating houses, packing the stadiums, crawling over the curiously shaped stones of an old garden.

A quarter-century ago, in their profusion and poverty, they seemed like millstones around the neck of Chiang Kai-shek. His Nationalist government, just emerging from a crippling war, still engaged in a fitful civil conflict with the Communists, could only regard the Chinese millions as too many mouths to feed, obstacles to economic recovery.

Western experts and writers predicted that the very weight of China's 500 million people in 1947 would prevent the country from ever becoming a first-rate power. Some thought the only cure for overpopulation was war, pestilence, natural disaster.

A visitor to China in those days saw no workable solution to the recurring problem of too little food and too many people. Hunger was endemic, starvation recurrent, illness commonplace. The spectacle of thousands of Chinese stretching out bony hands for a bowl of rice during times of famine burned itself into the memories of many foreigners.

no commands, no policemen to clear the way.

The differences in the Chinese crowds of today and yesterday are explained by a different interpretation of the uses of China's vast population. The planners of pre-1949 regarded so many people as a liability and a misfortune. Mao Tse-tung saw them as an asset. He believed that their combined muscle-power could make up for the lack of machines.

He had formed the peasants into a strong army in the 1930s, and in the 1940s he encouraged them with the carrot of private land ownership to produce an upsurge in agriculture.

In the 1950s, mistakenly some say, he threw them into a frenzied industrial speed-up called "the Great Leap Forward." The rural communes he created then have survived in modified form.

In the 1960s, he stirred China's masses into a great movement, the cultural revolution. Mao exerts a strong hold on the Chinese imagination, but he has not succeeded in molding and forming the masses through personal magnetism alone. The secret is organization.

The foundation stones are the street and neighborhood committees which tidy up their surroundings, report on suspicious characters, keep an eye on crime and indoctrinate the people. Delegates from these committees, unobtrusively placed, control the crowds and make a path through them for "foreign guests."

Whether the Chinese masses will be called on later to march to the tune of still another purge or make another Herculean physical effort seems to depend largely on Mao. He alone is the master of Chinese mass psychology.

Now 78, he has given the masses a chance to simmer down after the boiling struggles of the cultural revolution. He has turned over the active direction of affairs to Premier Chou En-lai.

Seen today, China's millions seem docile, disciplined, dormant. They surge quietly through the courtyards of Peking's Forbidden City, queue up for buses in Shanghai, stare in awe at the treasures of China's past in the museum of Canton's Ching Hai tower.

But they contain and explosive potential which could alter history.

Dowd Releasing His Contributors

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Edward L. Dowd, Democratic nominee for governor, began over the weekend releasing the names of contributors and how much they have given to his campaign.

His Republican opponent, Christopher S. "Kit" Bond, also has released such information.

Tavern Operator Fatally Wounded

UNIVERSITY CITY, Mo. (AP) — Roosevelt Robinson, who opened his tavern four months ago, was fatally shot by a robber Saturday night, police said.

Robinson, 38, was shot in the chest by the gunman, police said, who entered the tavern and demanded money from Robinson's sister. The man fired at Robinson when he approached.

The killer escaped in a stolen car which was later recovered.

Dowd's campaign staff estimated less than $300,000 would be spent in the race. Bond's staff said their man would spend about $450,000—just under the limit set by state law.

The limit, of $452,375, is based on 25 cents times the number of votes cast in the 1968 presidential race in Missouri.

Bond had pressured Dowd to disclose information on his contributors. Dowd has criticized Bond for not disclosing the amount of stock he owns in various corporations and also the amount of his wife's net worth and stock holdings.

Bond has said his personal worth is under $1 million, closer to $900,000.

McGovern Hopes Buoyed By Alleged GOP 'Leak'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's campaign strategists have reported receiving encouraging secret public-opinion polls leaked by a Republican defector inside President Nixon's political organization.

While a McGovern campaign aide said a private GOP poll showed the Democratic nominee gaining substantial ground, a spokesman for the Committee for the Re-election of the President termed it "bunk."

Albert E. Abrahams, spokesman for the Nixon campaign committee, said there was no such poll.

The McGovern aide, who asked that his name not be used, said the polling figures covered 33 states and showed the Democratic challenger pulling within 12 points of the President, a margin considerably less than that reported by national pollsters.

Abrahams said the Nixon administration had never conducted a poll of 33 states. He declined to give precise figures on GOP soundings, but said opinion polls in the 10 biggest states showed Nixon ahead of McGovern by margins ranging from 14 to 35 points.

The McGovern aide said he does not know which states were missing from the poll the Democratic camp obtained, and knows nothing about the sampling of voters it represents.

He said it was a GOP survey conducted between Oct. 10 and Oct. 22, and showed Nixon ahead of McGovern 51 per cent to 39 per cent.

An Oct. 25 Gallup poll rated Nixon at 59 per cent, McGovern at 36.

McGovern's man said the poll was obtained from someone working in the so-called November Group, the firm set up to handle Nixon's campaign advertising and television.

He said the source of the data was a Republican worker who became disenchanted because of the break-in at Democratic national headquarters and other alleged political espionage and sabotage, and decided to relay information to the McGovern camp.

"This is a man who volunteered, he was not recruited," the McGovern aide said. He said he does not know the identity of the informant, and could not reveal it if he did, but described the source as a volunteer and not a spy or a Democratic plant.

According to the McGovern aide, the polls showed McGovern leading Nixon by two percentage points in California. A source in the Nixon organization said its private poll actually showed the President ahead by 14 points in that pivotal state.

The McGovern aide said the polls showed Nixon ahead by seven points in New York and New Jersey and by nine points in Michigan.

He said those figures were roughly in line with the findings of McGovern's own pollster, Patrick Caddell, and showed the Democratic nominee catching up.

Strength Is Urged By Nixon

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — Criticizing his opponent's proposed defense cuts, President Nixon says America should stick to "the high road of peace through strength" followed by past presidents—Democratic and Republican.

In a paid political broadcast, the President also pledged "there will be no amnesty for draft dodgers and deserters" after the Vietnam war, which he said is now drawing to an end.

After the nationwide radio broadcast from the White House library Sunday, the President flew by helicopter to his mountaintop Camp David retreat where, aides said, he was working on legislation left by the just-adjourned Congress.

In the 15-minute address, Nixon never mentioned Democratic nominee George McGovern by name, but said "our opponents have proposed massive new cuts in military spending—cuts which would drastically slash away not just the fat but the muscle of our defense."

He ticked off McGovern's specific proposals and said they would reduce America to the second-strongest nation in the world.

In vowing to maintain a strong defense establishment, Nixon said "strength and resolution command respect. They are an incentive for negotiation leading to peace."

"But weakness and naive sentimentality breed contempt," he said. "They are an open invitation to pressure tactics and aggression leading to war."

The President's address was another in the series of his campaign radio broadcasts.

He resumes public campaigning on Tuesday, when he heads for Chicago and a motorcade through the city's Loop, followed by a meeting with selected supporters from Midwestern and Rocky Mountain states.

Nixon plans to wrap up his limited re-election campaign next weekend with appearances in California.

Joseph William Piatt

PILOT GROVE — Joseph William Piatt, 84, died Sunday evening at Cooper County Hospital after a short illness.

He was born Feb. 15, 1928, at Pilot Grove, son of Joseph and Mary Walz Piatt.

He lived his entire life in the Pilot Grove community where he was a member of St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Surviving is one brother, Gene Piatt, Kansas City.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the church with the Rev. Francis Gillgannon officiating.

Burial will be in the church cemetery.

The rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Monday at the Hays-Painter Funeral Home here.

Friends may call at the chapel from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday and Tuesday until the time of the services.

Policeman Injured In Minor Accident

A Sedalia motorcycle policeman suffered minor injuries after a car-motorcycle accident at 12:15 p.m. Friday at Broadway and South Osage.

Don S. Mather, 32, was treated at Bothwell Hospital Saturday for a sprain of the right wrist, a hospital spokesman said. Police said Mather also received a scrape on the left foot.

According to police reports, the accident occurred when a 1972 Chevrolet driven south on Osage by Elinor L. Hartsock, 21, Ionia, struck the rear of the motorcycle driven by Mather. Police said Mather was stopped at the intersection.

Police estimated damage to the motorcycle at $225.06. No charges were filed.

Mrs. Mary E. Ellison

Mrs. Mary E. Ellison, 70, of 609 South Lafayette, died at her home at 1:30 a.m. Monday. She had been ill for the past two months.

She was born at Boonville, July 24, 1902, the daughter of the late John William and Mattie Fielding Lee.

She was married at Warsaw, Oct. 1, 1934, to William C. Ellison, who survives. They lived all of their married life in Sedalia.

Also surviving are a daughter and two sons by a former marriage, Mrs. Walker (Helen) Paxton, 801 East Seventh, Buddy Leet, Lombard, Ill. and Frank Leet, Flat River, Mo.; one half-brother, Walter Manion, Boonville; six grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday at the Ewing Funeral Home with the Rev. Floyd T. Buntensch officiating.

Burial will be in the Crown Hill Cemetery.

The body is at the funeral home.

Studying Reports Of Thefts

Police are investigating several thefts occurring over the weekend.

Ethel W. Webb, 1416 South Kentucky, reported the theft of a .22 caliber pistol valued at $73.46 from her residence between 4 and 7 p.m. Saturday. Police reported no signs of forcible entry. Mrs. Webb told police she may have left a door unlocked.

Juanita Gravitt, 203 West Clay, told police that clothing and bedding valued at $91 were taken from a dryer at a laundromat at Main and Harrison between 9 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

Arthur Shimp, 516 East 26th, told police that a brown Angora goat valued at $25 was taken from his residence between 3 and 10 a.m. Thursday.

Harvey Ream, 1515 East Seventh, told police that an egg was thrown on his parked car late Friday night.

George Azar, owner of the Fina Service Station, 2600 East Broadway, who earlier reported the theft of $750 in cash, checks and credit cards from the station safe, told police that two men who came to the station in a tractor-trailer rig may have taken the items.

Azar said the two came into his station at 7:10 a.m. Friday. He said one stood by a window and the other by the safe. The safe was unlocked at the time, police reports stated.

Police said the safe was inspected for fingerprints.

Fischer Withholds Comment on Survey

Presiding Judge B.A. "Bunny" Fischer Monday said "he had no comment at all" on a recommendation Friday that county officials across the state use federal revenue sharing funds to reduce the county property tax.

The request was made by the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey who urged that "unless needs for expenditures of federal funds can be justified through the budgetary process, local officials have a responsibility to reduce taxes."

While Fischer declined comment, Cole County Judge Tony Hiesberger, representing the Missouri Association of Counties, charged the survey's computations were "grossly inaccurate because the survey does not have the assessed valuation figure of a single one of the 114 counties accurate."

Set Hearing Date

Daniel James Forbes, 17, LaMonte, was arrested by Missouri State Highway Patrolmen at 12:30 a.m. Saturday on a charge of possession of less than 35 grams of marijuana, a misdemeanor, Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said Monday.

Authorities said Forbes was arrested in LaMonte and brought to the Pettis County jail. He is presently free on $500 bond.

Pettis County Magistrate Judge Frank Armstrong set Dec. 7 as a preliminary hearing date.

Injured in Mishap

Lester Eaton, 28, Whiteman AFB, suffered chin, eye and possible internal injuries in a one-car crash at 3:35 a.m. Saturday on Highway 50, 1.3 miles east of Route P in Johnson County.

Eaton was taken to the base hospital. A Highway Patrol spokesman said the eastbound Eaton car crossed the median and struck an embankment.

Nixon and Bond, Eagleton said, "This is the most crucial contest in many years and stresses 'big money' against the people, nationally and in Missouri."

Spain, comparing himself to Danforth, said, "I'm the only man in the race that has tried a law suit and I think that is significant for a man running for a lawyer's job." He also promised not to use the job as an immediate stepping stone to other posts, saying, "This is the job I want."

Approximately 500 people attended the rally and dinner and gave Dowd a standing ovation as he concluded his speech. The majority of Democratic candidates for county and state positions appeared on the speaker's platform.

The survey's computations showing possible tax reductions were made by dividing the amount each county would receive in revenue sharing funds by the county's assessed valuation.

"If the survey had contacted us," Hiesberger said, "we could have shown them very simply where they had completely left out all state-assessed utilities in their computation."

"If a basic factor in the survey's formula is wrong — as it certainly is — each county's computed possible tax cut is totally misleading to the public and unable to withstand public scrutiny," Hiesberger continued.

Franklin County Presiding Judge Ralph Smith, commenting on the survey, said "In light of these and many other critical problems facing local county officials, the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey — by spreading false and erroneous information — has performed a disservice to the citizens and every county assessor and budget official who is struggling to meet statutory requirements and local needs."

Worker Injured In Fall

A Kansas City man was rushed to Bothwell Hospital by ambulance at 9:24 a.m. Sunday after he fell about 20 feet to the sidewalk from a fire escape platform.

Ivan Nurdyke, 52, was treated for a concussion, broken right wrist and bleeding from the left ear and nostril. He was transferred to Research Hospital in Kansas City Sunday and was reported in fair condition there Monday afternoon.

According to police reports, former Sedalia Fire Chief Emmett Vaught, who witnessed the accident, told authorities Nurdyke was cutting bolts which held the fire escape to a building in the 200 block of South Ohio.

Vaught said when Nurdyke cut the upper bolts on the platform, the bottom ones gave way, causing Nurdyke to be thrown to the sidewalk on Ohio Street, in front of the C.W. Flower Co. and Zurcher's Jewelers.

Witnesses said Nurdyke landed on the sidewalk on his left shoulder and left side of his face.

A spokesman for the Zurcher's Jewelers said the building is owned and managed by persons living in Kansas City.

Turnout Sparse For Rock Concert

A representative of Will-Jack Productions, New York, said he "will never again bring a show to Sedalia," after witnessing Sunday's sparse turnout at the Fairgrounds' Coliseum for a nationally-known rock band "The Ides of March."

Less than 100 persons gathered at the coliseum to hear the Chicago-based group which has had several recordings break into the select "top 50" charts across the United States.

The representative noted that two other shows featuring Country & Western and rock stars had failed to draw substantial crowds in this area and said "The people here don't deserve quality shows."

Test Drilling Is Planned For Projects

City Engineer Robert Cunningham Monday said the Layne Western Co. will drill test holes near Grand and Kentucky Avenues to determine the elevation of rock beds near the location of two upcoming city sewer projects.

The rock bed elevation must be known before bids for the project are let because the elevation will determine trenching expenses for bidding firms.

The new sewer lines will drain into the new southwest trunk sewer, Cunningham explained. The "Grand Avenue" line will replace a temporary lagoon at 28th and Quincy that has been in operation for seven years, Cunningham said.

The Kentucky line will extend to the city limits and will serve residents currently using individual septic tanks.

The dual projects will be financed by city sewer bond funds, and federal and state funds.

Cunningham said the city has also applied for federal matching funds to finance a new benefit sewer district. This benefit district, he indicated, would serve an area from 32nd street north to 24th and bounded by Ohio on the east and Limit on the west.

McGovern 'Glad' About Viet Talk

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern says President Nixon and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger "have literally been begging for a settlement" of the Vietnam war. "And I'm glad they have."

McGovern made the comment in Hartford Sunday night in response to a question from a television viewer who expressed concern about the senator's June statement that "begging is better than bombing" to free U.S. prisoners in Vietnam.

The Democratic nominee said he stands by that statement, adding: "I submit to you that for the last few weeks Mr. Kissinger and Mr. Nixon have literally been begging for a settlement of this war, and I'm glad they have."

On his fourth visit to Connecticut since the Democratic convention, McGovern planned to attend a brunch for labor and political leaders in New Haven today before returning to Hartford for a rally in Constitution Plaza.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, who nominated McGovern for president at both the 1968 and 1972 Democratic conventions, joined him on Sunday night's telethon, seen in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Afterwards, Ribicoff told reporters McGovern has overcome most of Nixon's earlier leads in the bellwether state of Connecticut.

The Connecticut Democrat also said that, in contrast with his earlier belief that Nixon would be helped by peace developments, he is finding considerable questioning about the timing of the recent moves. McGovern workers and aides report a similar reaction is becoming noticeable in their canvassing.

Eleanor McGovern, the candidate's wife, made comments on several of the telephoned questions, including a statement on Vietnam peace talks that "a cease-fire does not necessarily mean an immediate end to the war."

"That could really go on for several months," she said, prompting her husband to add that "it doesn't mean also that Gen. Thieu is going to cooperate."

As in an appearance earlier Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," McGovern accused Nixon of changing his position on the question of amnesty for draft evaders, declaring "there has been a lot of demagoguery on the part of Mr. Nixon and those who are speaking for him."

He said Nixon was quoted earlier this year as saying "I for one would be very liberal with regard to amnesty," a contrast with his recent sharp denunciation of the concept. McGovern said "there isn't five cents worth of difference in positions that the two of us have taken."

McGovern supports amnesty for draft evaders but not for military deserters.

WHERE THEY STAND

THE ISSUES OF THE 1972 CAMPAIGN

Taxes

REPUBLICANS

Tax reforms must continue... We pledge to pursue such policies as revenue sharing that will allow property tax relief; reform to insure that the tax burden is fairly shared; a simplified tax system to make it easier for all of us to pay no more and no less than we rightly owe.

We reject the deceitful tax "reform" cynically represented as one that would soak the rich, but, in fact, one that would sharply raise the taxes of millions of families in middle-income brackets as well.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The positions above were extracted from the official 1972 platforms of the Republican and Democratic Parties.

DEMOCRATS

Reform of the nation's tax structure to do these things:

Distribute the cost of government more fairly. Close unjustified tax loopholes and remove all unfair corporate and individual preferences.

The tax law is clogged with complicated provisions and special interests, such as percentage oil depletion and other favors for the oil industry; special rates and rules for capital gains; fast depreciation unrelated to useful life; easy-to-abuse "expense account" deductions, and the ineffective minimum tax.

On Halloween eve, 1938, Orson Welles hosted the Mercury Theatre's dramatization of H. G. What of Sen. McGovern's legacy?

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON (NEA) — With crowds building, late money coming in fairly fast, and his own polls in key states showing close races, Sen. George McGovern may be genuinely more hopeful about the election. But some friends say he is also preparing himself for defeat.

Blossat Here's how one party source sees McGovern's mental approach today to the prospect of losing on Nov. 7:

"He is philosophical and even mystical

Naturally, no Democrat is going to say anything for the record about McGovern's attitude. Yet the senator is a practical politician, and he knows his fight against President Nixon is still very much uphill.

about it. If he loses, I don't think he'll be too broken up at the end.

"He finds it disappointing the way things have gone, but he also feels that he will have done all that he could."

What exactly does that mean?

Friends think it means that the South Dakota senator will be able to convince himself that he has had an unforgettable, healthy impact on the processes of change — not only in the Democratic party and politics generally, but in the nation.

You seldom if ever hear George McGovern use the phrase "the movement" to describe what he and others consider to be massive, continuing changes in American life today. Still, he seems well persuaded that his candidacy rising out of nowhere on an evident tide of protest, represents a very positive contribution to the new forces at work.

Others, not unsympathetic to him, are not sure. They think only time will tell. If

Mr. Nixon should bury him in a landslide, it could hardly be portrayed as a great forward push for McGovern's outlook. A strong finish, even if it does not bring him victory but only closes the gap, would clearly give far more significance to the "McGovern effect."

While some influential Democrats thus think the jury is still out on how much impact McGovern will have personally, most would appear to agree with one top figure who says "the party will never be the same."

Its reforms, its new openness to blacks, women, young, are believed to have broken a dam. Many Democrats look for still more changes in the years just ahead.

Nobody knows just how the party will be governed between presidential years by the vastly expanded, free-wheeling new national committee structure. Winner-take-all primaries like California's may be dead everywhere by 1976.

Peace of mind in dog

WASHINGTON — A recent trip to the doctor filled me with the sad reality that my beautiful companion is growing old — beginning to creak a bit at the joints.

Already I must think heart-wrenching thoughts of replacing her, and I am doubtful that I can find a new companion so shape-ly, so graceful of movement, so full of warmth and affection.

Our Doberman Pinscher is ailing.

And it is the prospect of losing her, one day or one year soon, that pushes upon us a consciousness of what she means in terms of peace of mind — or of what she might have taught us about the philosophy of life.

A man sleeps more easily with a faithful dog by his bed than if he commanded a thousand armies.

We see the king of Morocco almost killed in a plot cooked up by the man he thought to be his most loyal protector. In the Philippines, in Korea, in South Vietnam, in Uganda, in Latin America, we see leaders groping for security in martial law and the piling up of power.

But they will never know a colonel or general they can trust the way we can trust our guardian.

I remember the time my wife had taken our pal, Jackie, along when she drove to Buffalo, leaving me to rattle around alone and lonely in a big house. I hadn't told my wife, but this was a time when the kooks had phoned in a mean threat or two by way of taking exception to something I had written.

As I pounded the typewriter into the wee hours I thought, "Those nuts might be serious," so I put my Mannix-type persuader nearby.

Then I said to myself: "Behind the racket of this typewriter an intruder could sneak up on you and your gun and pound hell out of you. But they could never sneak up if Jackie were here."

And I thought how much safer and nicer this society would be if we stopped screaming about "the right to bear arms" and made it a "Constitutional right" of everyone to have a big, brave mutt.

Did you ever wake up on a cold night to hear a screech here, and a pop there, and sit up in bed with the horrifying thought that a burglar-robber-rapist was in the house?

If you can look over and see that lovely animal, muzzle flat on the carpet, sensitive ears at parade rest, you know that no one is in your house who doesn't belong there. It is the expansion and contraction of your heating ducts which causes the noises that sound so much like an intruder.

What amazes me is our Dobe's uncanny knack for distinguishing between what is harmless ritual and what is threatening intrusion. Let a car stop alongside our house at night, and a door open, and the ears go up in a total alert. Let the occupant of the car take two strides up our walk and you get the throaty bark and fierce rush toward the door which says she means business.

Yet, the newspaper carrier stops his car in the same place about 4 a.m. each day, strides up the walk and puts the paper beside the door, and that Doberman never moves a muscle.

How is it that the relative or close friend comes to visit after being away for six months or more and that dog just wags, "Welcome back!"? No pistol was ever so discriminating.

Even in this era of buggings, espionage, sabotage, the Democrats may find that they, too, can have some peace of mind if they put their headquarters in the middle of a dog kennel.

But what moves us more than any watchdog quality is the way our Jackie becomes almost delirious with joy when the wife takes the leash off the doorknob. Then what dog is close to human, dancing and twisting as if to say: "Wow, she's going to take me for a walk. And if no school kids or strange passers-by are in sight she'll let me chase squirrels, and I may get another crack at that rabbit that keeps trespassing my lawn. And she might even let me show off for the neighbors a bit by putting me through my paces. After which, of course, I'll get a dog burger. Life is beautiful!"

Then we look at that dog and know she is indeed telling us something about life.

Happiness, she is saying, is just the security of truly belonging somewhere — and having the opportunity to love and be loved.

Maybe, I pray, with that kind of philosophy my companion will be around a lot longer than the doctor thinks.

Flowering Trees

All hardwood trees have flowers. The oak has two kinds of flowers — the female is the size of a little bud and will turn into an acorn; the male is in the form of a slender tassel about two inches long.

Tuning a Piano

In tuning a piano to A-440, the tuner begins by stretching the string A above middle C until it vibrates 440 times a second; then he tunes all of the remaining strings to proper relationship with this A.

Two amendments deserve approval

Missouri voters will be asked to pass on two proposed amendments to the Missouri Constitution in the Nov. 7 general election.

Amendment No. 1, the more important of the two, would permit the Legislature to grant relief from real estate taxes to Missourians over 65 years of age. This could be done by either exempting a portion of such taxes owed by the elderly, or by granting them either income tax rebates or credits based on the amount of real estate tax they pay.

An estimated 353,000 persons would stand to benefit from the change, which would be a break for elderly Missourians who live on fixed incomes. Those over 65 who rent a home or apartment also would get a tax break. Persons having no income tax liability at all would receive a cash payment from the state, a form of "negative income tax."

Amendment No. 1 also exempts from property taxation household goods, clothing and articles for personal use, and makes a provision that if the intangibles tax is ever reimposed (it was repealed this year), individuals and non-profit corporations could be exempted.

The Missouri Legislature would face the task of coming up with new sources of revenue for local governments to offset the losses authorized by the proposed amendment. The elderly exemption and one for household goods would cost an estimated $24 million in revenues.

We support Amendment No. 1, while realizing that "tax reform" here means a tax increase there. But the plight of our elderly citizens, who are caught in a squeeze by increasing taxes, demands some solution, and this would appear to offer a practical form of relief.

House Bill 1033, a homestead exemption measure for the elderly, passed the House last year but failed in Senate committee. It included what strikes us as an important feature, by specifying a means test for eligibility and placing a limit on the amount of assistance granted. The Missouri Public Expenditure Survey points out that other states that provide such assistance have found the limitations necessary to avoid excessive costs.

Amendment No. 2 is a technical change which would give the Legislature a means of overriding vetoes returned to it after the end of a regular session. We also favor its approval.

Sparkman wangles deal for backers

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Sen. John Sparkman is using his political clout to wangle a dubious $16.5 million lease guarantee for a fancy private hospital that two of his political fund raisers are building.

Not only would the lease guarantee be the largest in the history of the Small Business Administration, but it appears to violate SBA regulations and policy.

The proposed hospital, critics charge, would also drain away doctors' services that are badly needed by the poor, particularly blacks.

Yet Sparkman pushed the hospital deal vigorously. He wrote two letters to SBA, spoke personally to then Administrator Hilary Sandoval and, on at least four occasions, had aide Jerald Allen intervene with SBA officials.

What Sparkman wants out of SBA, he usually gets. He was chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee until he stepped down to the second spot in order to take the chairmanship of the Senate Banking Committee. It was Sparkman, in fact, who pushed through the bill making the lease guarantee possible.

Now the mellow and mannerly Alabama Democrat wants the taxpayers to guarantee a $16.5 million lease for two real estate men who have been raising money for his campaign.

One is Charles Speir, a prominent Birmingham real estate lawyer, who has contributed to past Sparkman campaigns and has coughed up $1,500 this year.

The other is Art Rice, a Birmingham realtor, who has been collecting a campaign kitty for Sparkman from real estate operators. In a letter to the trade, Rice urged: "We in the real estate business won't live long enough to see another Alabamian in this particular position of seniority, influence and power ... The campaign will take $500,000."

Putting his money where his mouth is, Rice kicked in $2,000.

The two entrepreneurs owned most of Valley Center Development Corp., which held a multimillion-dollar piece of property in Birmingham's affluent residential district of Homewood. Along with a group of doctors, Speir and Rice decided to build a privately owned hospital on the land.

As they set it up, the hospital could avoid taking most welfare cases and other poor, long-term patients who have become the bane of nonprofit hospitals. They planned a complex that would also include an office building for doctors, nursing home, motel and other refinements.

The financial twists and turns are a bit difficult to follow. Speir and Rice sold part of their land to the hospital, whose corporate name is Brookwood Medical Center Hospital Inc. To their credit, they sought no profit on the sale. Speir, however, made a tidy $34,000 fee as attorney and Rice collected an $80,000 real estate commission.

Both promoters were also named to the hospital's nine-man board and were allowed jointly to buy 450 shares of the hospital's stock — about 10 per cent.

To clinch the deal, Speir set off for Washington to seek Sparkman's help in arranging a lease guarantee. Speir can't remember whether he spoke directly to Sparkman or to a staff member. But Sparkman got hold of Hilary Sandoval and made a personal pitch for the hospital lease guarantee.

The powerful senator quickly followed up with a "Dear Hilary" letter, urging: "I feel that the application for a guarantee of the lease rentals of the Brookwood Medical Hospital Inc., is a deserving one ... I urge you to consider (it)." He asked for a report "when action is taken on this application."

Although recent lease guarantees have been limited to $2.5 million, the Alabama application for $16.5 million miraculously ground through the bureaucratic process against considerable opposition.

Alabama's own Department of Health was dubious. Birmingham's Community Health Planning Commission was divided. And there were strenuous objections inside SBA's regional office in Atlanta.

But the Atlanta office, significantly, is headed by Wiley Messick who used to work for Sparkman. Messick cleared the application but was obliged to send a split decision to Washington.

At headquarters, questions were raised over the identity of the "lessor." Regulations require that the landlord, or "lessor," must be separate from the tenant. But in the Alabama deal, Brookwood hospital would both occupy and own the land.

The hospital got around the regulation by hastily forming the Brookwood Medical Foundation as a separate entity, operating out of Speir's office. Speir insists it will serve as a functional part of the medical center when the hospital is finally built.

The lease guarantee is now on its way to final approval.

At SBA, community development chief Einar Johnson said of the Brookwood deal: "We were just learning our business, to tell you the truth." Speir and Rice both insist there was no conflict of interest involved. Of Sparkman's intervention, Rice said: "That's what he's supposed to do" for constituents. Speir added that "everything about this is legitimate and desirable."

Footnote: Sparkman himself didn't respond to our calls. But at a recent Alabama rally, he admitted he put the pressure on SBA. "The fellow in charge of that agency (SBA) has to come before my committee for his appropriation and he personally came around to my office to speak to me about that hospital." Sparkman then chuckled and winked at the group: "I come to know all these people and believe me, it's quite helpful."

Hog prices are holding very strong in the face of marketings for the first three weeks of October, only 6 per cent below last year under Ft on a weekly basis, states Glen Grimes.

Prices, on the other hand, have been about 40 per cent higher than last year at the river markets.

The data still indicates a substantial drop in prices can be expected during November, if we have a normal relationship between supply change and price change. However, if we continue with the price supply relationship of early October, the drop in price in November will probably be relatively small.

Marketings the first three weeks of October are in line with the Sept. 1 Hogs and Pigs Report.

Irrigation System

A prominent Rumanian researcher in Bucharest developed a computer program to compare several irrigation systems on the bases of cost, labor, and other inputs needed. He concluded that a towline sprinkler system was optimum for Rumanian conditions. The lower cost of labor in Rumania than in the United States favors the towline over systems more popular in Missouri.

Rumanian systems are managed according to the needs of the crops. Corn is the primary irrigated crop there. Allowances for sprinkler evaporation losses — recorded as 10 to 12 per cent at night and 20 to 25 per cent during the day — must be made.

Most Rumanian irrigation is done in large tracts, from large irrigation reservoirs. We have some prairie lands in Missouri where multi-farm irrigation water supplies have real merit.

Health

The average adult man burns between 2,400 and 4,500 calories a day depending upon amount and kind of exercise he gets, according to Today's Health. Active persons such as manual workers and athletes may consume as many as 5,000 calories a day and yet not gain weight. A "Burning Calories Through Exercise" chart for a 150 pound person indicated that gardening at 220 calories per hour was only 30 calories less than an 18-hole round of golf. Hand mowing your lawn at 270 calories was only 20 calories more than using power. Square dancing consumed 350 calories an hour (if you can last that long), tennis, 420 calories, skiing, 600 calories, and running (10 miles per hour) ate up 900 calories.

Spring Alfalfa

Experiments at several locations in Missouri have shown that spring alfalfa seedlings can be successful if weeds are controlled with herbicides. Moisture is usually adequate in the spring and insect populations are low so that legumes can get a good start.

If alfalfa is planted as early as possible, in late March or early April, it will bloom in late June and can be harvested for hay. If moisture continues to be adequate, two or sometimes three cuttings of hay can be obtained. Yields of two or more tons can be obtained during the seedling year.

Nutgrass

Nutgrass is causing Missouri farmers concern as a weed problem in field crops. Nutgrass was only considered to be a problem primarily in low wet areas. It has spread to upland sites and adapted well to large areas of cultivated land. This weed continues to spread in spite of continued control efforts.

More correctly called yellow nutsedge, nutgrass is not a true grass but a sedge. It is distinguished by its three-sided stem. It is a perennial plant that spreads by seed and small tuberlike underground structures called "nutlets."

Its rapid spread can be attributed in part to reduced competition from weeds controlled by herbicide applications. This is another example where row-crop farmer solves a segment of his weed problem while unknowingly creating a new and perhaps more serious problem. Such is the story of giant foxtail and fall panicum.

No controls available now will completely eradicate nutgrass. Intensive cultivation will reduce the density of a stand but will not free tilled areas of the pest.

Perhaps the most effective chemical herbicide on row crops is Sutan on corn at planting time. A shallow cultivation later will improve results.

A control program for a single season will not solve the problem because of dormant tubers and seed in the soil.

D.H.I.

During the month of September Lena and Chancy Housworth supervised the testing of 845 cows in 17 herds.

The five highest herds for the month were the Oelrichs, Longan, Lenz, McColister and Merk dairies. These herds ranged from 45 to 99 cows and the average milk production per herd was about 1,200 pounds with over 40 pounds of butterfat.

The Home Place Dairy had a 9-year-old cow that reached 1,000 pounds of milk in her lifetime during this month. The highest producing cows in a herd during the month revealed there were four from the Lenz dairy, one Merk dairy, two Longan dairy and one each from the Oelrichs, McColister and French dairies.

There were 15 cows that completed 305-day lactation above 550 pounds of butterfat reported this month. The Longan dairy had five, Rehmer one, Lenz dairy six and Home Place Dairy had two.

Milo to Hogs

Yes, but know what you are doing. Milo may not be as palatable as corn, has slightly less digestible energy per pound, is slightly higher but more variable in protein content than corn, is a poor source of calcium, phosphorous, and vitamin A, as is corn.

Generally, it will need about the same protein, mineral, and vitamin supplement as corn. Figure 9 per cent protein on either, or use the actual test if it is below 9 per cent. If it tests higher, better still, call it 9 per cent.

Rate of gain and feed efficiency may be slightly below corn. If milo is the same price or cheaper per pound than corn, you might consider feeding it. It should be ground. You will also want to consider the possible gain from storage of milo and corn if you have this choice to make. They are close enough substitutes that price will tend to move the same direction and amount. There tends to be more variation in protein and palatability in milo than corn.

Friend or Foe

The wise use of credit can be one of your most valuable assets. On the other hand, unwise use of credit can be your downfall.

Almost always the use of credit involves a charge or a cost for the use of that asset. This cost is known as interest. Credit does not differ much from other products in that it is available if you are willing to pay the price.

Credit should be used when it allows you to take advantage of a profitable opportunity, when returns from its use exceed the costs, when repayment fits within the budget and when it replaces or complements other capital items such as labor or management.

Credit should not be used when repayment is impossible or terms are unsatisfactory, when you work for credit instead of it working for you, when costs exceed returns or when it deprives your family of necessities.

Credit can be a useful tool if handled properly. Most of us must use credit in order to accumulate assets, but be cautious and manage it in a businesslike manner.

Optimism Is Expressed In Missouri Stopover

FLORISSANT, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Democrats and R. Sargent Shriver, the vice presidential candidate, expressed optimism here Sunday that the state will wind up in the Democratic column on Nov. 7.

Shriver was ebullient as he warmed up a large crowd that turned out in cold and damp weather for a rally at the Knights of Columbus Park.

Before he mounted the platform he told a reporter: "Nobody's proved we're trailing. You're relying on public opinion polls." He said he did not

'Tarzan' Playing For Real

MIAMI (AP) — Movie Tarzan Steve Hawkes was forced into a live performance when his 200-pound Bengal tiger started to maul a little boy on a bicycle during an animal show.

"She (the tiger) was biting everything to get loose. She bit the boy and also bit me," said Hawkes, who was holding the 16-month-old animal with a chain when young Dennis Churchill accidentally bumped into it with his two-wheeler on Sunday.

Dennis, 9, was in fair condition at North Miami Hospital after undergoing surgery for lacerations on his neck and back. Hawkes was treated at the hospital for a wound on his leg and released.

The 30-year-old actor said he had taken his pet tiger, Delilah, and a lion to Miami's sixth annual "Blessing of the Animals," sponsored by the Miami chapter of Friends of Animals, Inc.

The event is held each year in Miami's Griffing Park. Pet owners bring their animals there to be blessed by clergymen.

"It was a freak accident," said Hawkes. "The tiger's tail and the boy's bicycle got tangled together."

"The chain was choking her and she tried to break loose. There was no way I could have freed her immediately."

He said that as he tugged on the chain to get the tiger away from the Churchill boy, the animal turned and bit him on the leg.

believe in the accuracy of the polls.

He told the crowd that Harry S. Truman was "the greatest exponent of the come-from-behind victory. I hope George McGovern will do as well as Harry Truman."

Shriver then delivered a shouting, mocking and sometimes laughing attack on the Nixon administration. He told the suburbanites Nixon had doubled unemployment and "doubled the welfare mess."

"The crowd howled when he said that under Nixon's economics the price of 'a six-pack of beer is up 22 per cent.'"

He said Nixon was allowing his campaign managers to use "James Bond and CIA" methods, such as spying, bugging telephones and falsifying records. "What he's doing in this campaign is morally wrong and he doesn't have the nerve to tell you about it."

"He secrets himself in the White House," Shriver said, "and his henchmen are unavailable for comment."

He called Nixon a radical, saying he wants to have the Supreme Court return to the days where it did not protect citizens' rights and that the president wants to emasculate congress and change the executive branch.

He called McGovern an "apple pie candidate" who is not radical at all. "We've got our feet on the ground and not in some big corporate office," Shriver said.

He criticized Nixon for waiting until election time to say

Patrolman Shoots Vandal To Death

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — John Mahoney Jr., 23, Kansas City, Kan., was shot to death Sunday night in a struggle with a policeman in Kansas City, Kan.

Placement Important to Plant

Plants should have a place in every home. If plants are to thrive and be decorative, however, they must be placed properly.

The most common use of house plants today is to fill empty spaces. An empty corner or bare wall is usually greatly improved by the addition of one or more plants.

House plants may be used as dividers or screens. They can become a highlight on a fireplace mantel, piano, coffee table, or window sills. Avoid too many plants on window sills as they will block out light and make the room too dark. Do not scatter plants haphazardly throughout a room, but make sure that they have purpose and fit well into the interior design.

The use of artificial light over plants has greatly extended their scope of usefulness since we are no longer limited to putting plants near windows. Light, however, is one of the most important considerations in placing plants in the home.

Flowering plants generally require more light than foliage plants, and, therefore, should always be located close to a bright window or artificial light. Most of them will require some direct sunlight, especially during the winter months.

Foliage plants are often grouped into those requiring bright, filtered (medium), or low light intensities. Requirements of individual plants are given in Grounds for Gardening Guide 6510, "Caring for House Plants," available from the local University Extension Center. Be sure to know the preferred conditions for all plants selected for interior decoration.

Never locate plants where they will be exposed to the direct drying air from vents of heaters. Plants located in such spots may develop leaf drop or scorched edges.

Several plants in a planter or pot are often more attractive than a single plant. When grouping plants, be sure to select those with similar cultural and environmental requirements. Make sure that good drainage is provided for any container used.

In addition to selecting an environment suited to the plant grouping, use plants that are in scale with surroundings. A shallow bowl containing heart-shaped philodendron may be suitable for a low, small coffee table. Plants on a dining table may contain a taller plant such as a sansevieria that adds height without obstructing the view across the table.

When making a planting or grouping, try to avoid putting plants in a straight row. The effect is often uninteresting. Vary textures and sizes. Try to develop a focal point by using a plant of different color or striking texture. It should be placed low and somewhat centered in the arrangement.

Decorative plants are not static. Be prepared for changes in the overall appearance of each plant.

Farm Roundup

Brazil Is Emerging As Soybean 'Power'

WASHINGTON (AP) — American farmers produce and export more soybeans than anyone else and are heavily favored to maintain the lead, but the Agriculture Department said today Brazil is emerging as a full-fledged competitor.

Citing unprecedented high world prices for soybeans, the USDA Foreign Agricultural Service said demand spurred Brazilian production 60 per cent in 1971-72 to about 3.4 million metric tons. This season, with planting now going on, the output could rise to 4.0 million tons.

By comparison, USDA estimates American farmers will produce more than 1.3 billion bushels this year or about 36 million tons.

But Brazil continues soybean expansion and may double today's acreage by the 1976-77 crop, the FAS report said.

Exports of Brazilian beans and soybean meal also have risen dramatically. Bean sales, mostly to the European Community, and favored U.S. market, are expected to be about 1.0 million tons this year plus a similar amount of meal, both up sharply since last year.

The United States this year is expected to export 13.5 million tons of soybeans and 3.6 million tons of meal.

"The Brazilian government has been a major force behind this growth, actively encouraging the acreage expansion needed to bring about larger production and trade," the report said.

Rice supports available to Brazilian soybean growers have increased to $2.29 per bushel but — as in the case of the U.S. market — cash prices have exceeded the loan rate, reaching a peak of $2.97 per bushel last season.

Soybean prices in the United States have been more than $3 per bushel for many months, compared with the government's support rate of $2.25. Department analysts said the high soybean prices have caused many Brazilian farmers to turn away from traditional crops such as cotton, corn and coffee.

The soybean boom also has made the crop a favorite on newly developed land, the report said.

"In Parana state, for instance, most of the expanded acreage can be attributed to cotton farmers turning to soybeans after being disappointed with returns," the FAS said.

Is now the time to buy land?

Down San Diego

Chiefs Back on Winning Foot, 26-14

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Bobby Bell guessed right and the San Diego defense guessed wrong, and as a result the Kansas City Chiefs are still in the National Football League playoff race while the Chargers are almost out of it. With the Chargers leading 7-6 in the third quarter Sunday, Bell, the Chiefs' massive linebacker, smelled a screen pass coming on second down and long-yardage and stepped in front of John Hadl's toss at the San Diego 17. Six plays later Ed Podolak swept right end for a 7-yard touchdown that put the Chiefs ahead to stay, and they went on to a 26-14 victory.

"I was looking for it," Bell said. "It just seemed like a good time to call the screen."

The third of Jan Stenerud's four field goals made it 16-7, but the Chargers scored a touchdown late in the fourth quarter and still had time to win when Kansas City applied the pressure.

With third down on the Kansas City 40, less than two minutes to play, and the San Diego defense looking for a short pass, Otis Taylor got a step on cornerback Ray Jones and Len Dawson lofted the ball to him at the Charger 15.

Taylor fumbled when tackled, but Kansas City rookie Robert West scooped up the ball at the eight and ran into the end zone.

"We were looking for something short to one of the backs to get the first down," said San Diego safety Joe Baughman.

"Lennie threw a perfect pass, Otis made a good catch and West made an alert play to get us a score," said Chiefs coach Hank Stram, who called the unconventional play. "This was a must win for us and we are tickled to death to get out of here with it."

The victory gave the Chiefs a 4-3 record and left them a half game behind first-place Oakland in the American Conference West. The Chargers dropped to 2-4-1 with their third straight loss.

San Diego had a slight statistical edge, 280 to 268 in yards and 16-15 in first downs but couldn't turn the yardage into points because of the five missed field goals.

Dennis Partee missed kicks of 47, 39 and 39 yards and had a 32-yarder nullified by a holding penalty. Rookie Bill McClard missed from 45 and 47 yards.

"This was the worst day I've ever had," said veteran Partee, who had made eight of nine previous 3-point tries. "It was very unprofessional. When things got bad, they just kept getting worse."

The Chargers also lost a possible touchdown when Bryant Salter, who had blocked a field goal try by Stenerud, couldn't pick up the erratically bouncing ball with an open field ahead. He finally grabbed it but was forced out of bounds on the Kansas City 31, and Partee's field goal try sailed wide as the half ended.

Mike Garrett scored both San Diego touchdowns on a bouncing 27-yard run with a screen pass and a three-yard run.

Stenerud's field goal kicks for the Chiefs measured 33, 50, 15 and 37 yards.

Hadl completed 18 of 36 passes for 199 yards but suffered three interceptions to run his conference-leading total to 14.

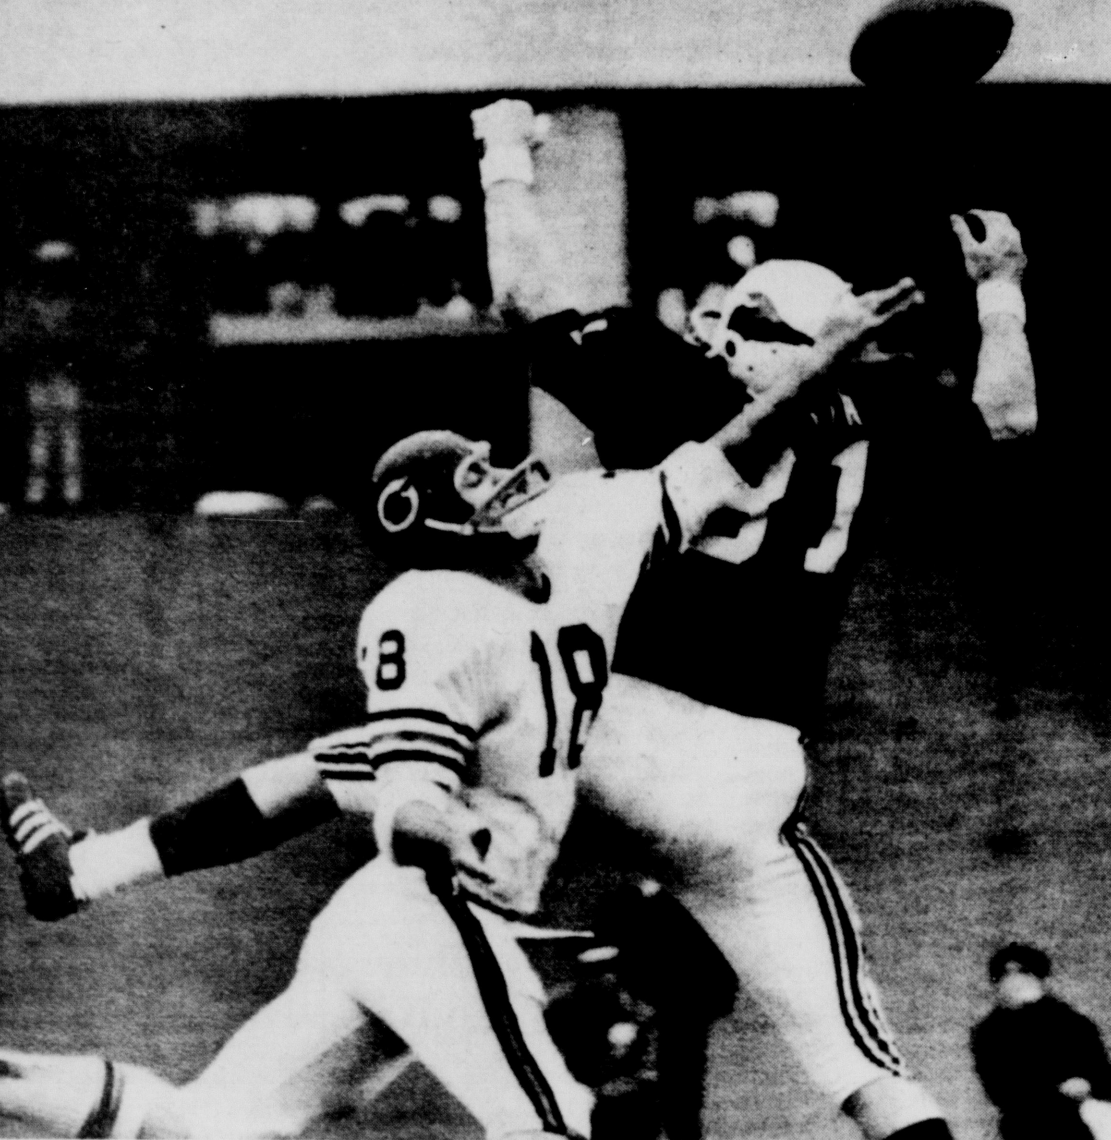

Dawson, rarely throwing farther than 10 yards, hit 14 of 27 for 134 yards and had two intercepted.

Looking For Room

Ed Podolak of the Chiefs is almost caught behind the line as Lionel Aldridge, (87) and Ron East, (77) of San Diego, come on to make the tackle. With the ball on the four, Podolak took a Len Dawson handoff and bulled his way to the nine in the third quarter. The Chiefs had to punt after his run. (UPI)

Breaks Up Pass

Breaking up a pass is Chicago's Jerry Moore, who managed to get his hands on an aerial bomb intended for the Cardinals' Jackie Smith. The action came in the second quarter of Sunday's game in St. Louis. (UPI)

Douglas Leads Chicago With Passes, Chicanery

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Irrepressible Bob Douglass threw a perfect pass and the Chicago Bears threw in a little chicanery in flattening the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday.

Douglass, the National Football League's runningest quarterback, curbed the propensity and combined with wide receiver George Farmer on a 73-yard pass play in the second quarter.

Put together with an earlier 91-yard kickoff return on a reverse, the play added up to an easy, 27-10 victory for the Bears, their third straight.

"We believe we can beat anyone," declared rotund Coach Abe Giron, whose Bears overcame surprisingly strong St. Louis running and capitalized on poor Cards passing.

"We're just sticking together and not worrying about anything," added Giron, whose team moved to 3-3-1 and within range of the Detroit Lions in the National Conference Central.

Chicago yielded a 15-yard field goal to the Cards' Jim Bakken near outset of the second quarter before unfolding the lengthy kickoff return and the Douglass bomb to stun the Cards.

Ron Smith fielded the kick at the nine, raced to his right with a flow of blockers and prospective tacklers and handed off to tight end Earl Thomas.

Accepting the reverse at the 18, the 224-pound Thomas sprinted to the left sideline and followed a cordon of blockers to the end zone.

St. Louis squandered an opportunity later in the second quarter when a bad center pass ruined Bakken's lineup for a 32-yard field goal try.

After Jim Harrison rammed two yards at the middle to the Bears' 27, Douglass began what appeared a rollout to his left for a run but instead lofted a left-handed pass.

Exploiting the advantage of a drawn-in secondary, Farmer maneuvered behind safety Larry Wilson and had a clear field ahead after hauling in the Douglass aerial at about the St. Louis 40.

Mac Percival's 12-yard field goal boosted the Bears' lead to 17-3 by halftime, and all St. Louis' spotty offense could manage afterward was Tim Van Galder's seven-yard pass to Donny Anderson for a touchdown making it 17-10.

Douglass, who passed prudently, hit on eight of nine for 182 yards and got his anticipated running in by smashing five yards over the left side to Chicago's other touchdown.

"We went into the game with the idea of throwing the ball, because the Cards probably didn't expect us to pass," the 6-foot-4, 225-pound athlete said.

"Usually on that play Bobby would run with the ball," said the 6-foot-4 Farmer, who totaled five receptions for 141 yards, "but this time he threw

Cards Activate Due To Injuries

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Football Cardinals said Sunday they have activated defensive lineman Tom Beckman, running back Leo Hayden and linebacker Jeff Lyman.

The club placed linebacker Terry Miller and wide receiver Mel Gray on the move list and said a decision would be made today on Fred Heron, starting defensive tackle. All three were injured a week ago Sunday in a game against the New York Giants.

Follmer's Emotions Are Mixed

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — George Follmer ponders an afternoon when he won a race and won a car and lost a car and lost a job.

It happened Sunday at Riverside International Raceway when the 36-year-old driver, who already had clinched the Canadian-American sports car title for 1972, capped his year of triumph by winning the Times Grand Prix.

That was the final race in the series where Follmer had taken over driving the Porsche 917-10 for Roger Penske of Philadelphia when Mark Donohue was hurt in July.

Follmer, from Arcadia, Calif., collected $20,950 and also the pace car for his triumph at Riverside.

But Penske had already sold the Porsche to Bobby Rinzier of Atlanta, and the deal included the second racer which Penske's crew had assembled for Donohue when he recovered from his accident injuries.

"Unfortunately," said Penske, "At this point we are not planning to race two cars in the 1973 series. We will build two new Porsche racers but we will race only one and that one will be driven by Mark Donohue."

Before a crowd of 64,200 Follmer jumped into the lead immediately and held it until Donohue took over on the 46th lap of the 201-mile race over the 3.3-mile course.

It appeared the strategy was for Donohue to win and capture second place in the series.

Donohue's lead lasted only five laps. His car developed symptoms of a flat tire and he came into the pits. No flat tire. It was apparently a buffeting effect of having Follmer so near to him.

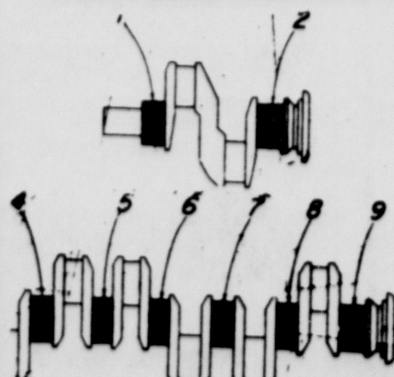

Follmer went on to win at an average speed of 122.585 miles per hour, his fifth victory in eight Can-Am races. Peter Revson finished second, about 20 seconds ahead of Donohue, who lost 50 seconds in the pit stop.

Wadkins Survives Pressurized Win

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The rookie beat the old master, but aging Arnold Palmer mired in one of the most frustrating slumps of his legendary career—has no thoughts at all of calling it quits.

"Hell," snorted the 43-year-old Palmer after losing by one stroke to Lanny Wadkins Sunday in the final round of the Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament, "I'll still be playing when he's retired."

That may be stretching it just a bit, considering that Wadkins is only 22 and fresh out of Wake Forest, which he attended on an Arnold Palmer Scholarship. But Palmer let no doubt that he's still ready and able to challenge the young lions that are moving into a dominant position on the pro tour.

"I just didn't hit the ball quite as good as I should have, quite as good as I could," he said and held his fingers just a fraction of an inch apart. "It's just that far away."

Wadkins, who collected $27,000 for his first tour victory, had a scrambling, two-under-par 69 in his final round on the 6,800-yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course and won with a 273 total, 11 under.

Palmer, who hasn't won in some 15 months, also had a 69 for 274 as victory once again eluded him.

Jack Nicklaus, the game's all-time leading money winner, also put pressure on the youthful Wadkins down the stretch. At one stage late in the tournament both he and Palmer—two of the most feared competitors the game has ever known—were just one stroke back of the rookie standout.

But Nicklaus hooked his tee shot out of bounds on the final hole, hit his next one into a lake and took a double bogey 7. He finished with a 68—276.

Canadian Open champion Gay Brewer and Hale Irwin tied at 275, Brewer with a final round 68 and Irwin with a 69. Canadian George Knudson, who led at the end of three rounds, blew to a 76 for 277.

Purple Gang Back in Gear

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Purple Gang has been reincarnated, although Carl Eller believes that it's still a ghost of its former self.

After the Minnesota Vikings demonstrated some of their old-time defensive magic in beating the Green Bay Packers 27-13 Sunday, their ringleader declared:

"We're not back yet ... wherever we've been, we're not back."

The brawny defensive end referred to Minnesota's unimpressive 3-4 record and unimposing last-place posture in the National Football Conference's Central Division.

They were destined for better things this year, according to general opinion.

"But we haven't been playing well," said Minnesota Coach Bud Grant, whose team has won four straight Central crowns.

No matter where the Purple Gang has been hiding, those tough guys were just as bullish as ever Sunday in pushing around a fairly potent offensive team.

Paul Krause and Wally Hilgenberg each intercepted a Scott Hunter pass and wheeled back for touchdowns and Eller and his bruising mates on that Front Four wall made life miserable for the Packers' gifted quarterback.

"I'd have to call this our best game of the season," said Grant. "Now we've got to play them one at a time. I know that's a cliché, but I think it applies here."

Minnesota's victory spoiled a chance for Green Bay to take over possession of first place in the nervous Central Division race. The Packers, who started the day tied with the Detroit Lions, fell to a 4-3 record and a half-game behind the Lions.

Detroit meets the Dallas Cowboys tonight.

The Cowboys, defending National Football League champions, fell 1½ games off Washington's pace in the East as a result of the Redskins' 23-16 victory over the New York Giants Sunday.

In the other games, the Miami Dolphins trounced the Baltimore Colts 23-0; the New York Jets humbled the New England Patriots 34-10; the Cincinnati Bengals clouted the Houston Oilers 30-7; the Pittsburgh Steelers trimmed the Buffalo Bills 38-21; the Oakland Raiders hammered the Los Angeles Rams 45-17; the Kansas City Chiefs defeated the San Diego Chargers 26-14; the Cleveland Browns tripped the Denver Broncos 27-20; the San Francisco 49ers crushed the Atlanta Falcons 49-14; the New Orleans Saints stopped the Philadelphia Eagles 21-3 and the Chicago Bears bombed the St. Louis Cardinals 27-10.

The Vikings' alert defense picked off four of Hunter's passes altogether and held the Big Green Machine to a paltry total of 99 yards, rushing and passing.

Larry Brown ripped off 191 yards rushing in the best day of his pro career to lead Washington over New York. Brown scored two touchdowns, including a 38-yard run that broke a 9-9 tie in the third quarter.

Jurgensen Is Out

will sideline him for the rest of this season, and possibly end his career. At left is Bill Kilmer, who guided the 'Skins to a 23-16 win over the Giants. (UPI)

In MIAA Action

Northwest Grabs Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Northwest Missouri State has moved into the lead with a 3-1 record in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association football race.

The Bearcats got there Saturday by disposing of Northeast Missouri while Lincoln University was being battered by Southeast Missouri 38-8. Lincoln, 1-1, tumbled all the way into a tie for fourth with Northeast.

The weekend action also left Southwest, which stepped outside the conference for a 41-37 triumph over Eastern Illinois, deadlocked with Southeast for second place, each with 2-1 marks.

In the other game, Central, 1-2-1, shoved Missouri Rolla, 0-3, into the MIAA basement with a 35-24 victory over the Miners.

Two breaks gave Northwest its decision over Northeast. After the Bulldogs fumbled on the one-yard line, Jim Albin crashed over the goal for the Bearcats' touchdown in the second quarter. Jim Maddick kicked a 39-yard field goal in the third.

John Gabrisch ran 79, 31 and two yards for touchdowns for Southeast which led only 10-8 at the half. Lincoln had taken an 8-7 lead in the second period on James Lang's 26-yard pass to Phil Doolin.

The four-way tie for first place in the Heart of America Conference was narrowed to a three-way deadlock Saturday with Graceland bouncing Central Methodist out of the scramble 17-14. Missouri Valley, Graceland and Ottawa are all 4-1 and Central Methodist 3-2.

Missouri Valley edged William Jewell 10-6 and Ottawa ran over College of Emporia 42-21. Tarkio thrashed Baker 29-0 in the other contest.

Missouri Valley drove 74 yards for a second period touchdown that wrapped up its decision over Jewell. Steve Traxler's one-yard run proved the difference and came with the Vikes trailing 6-3. David Pitt kicked a 27-yard field goal for the Vikes.

Central Methodist, holding a 14-10 lead after three quarters, lost when Graceland quarterback Al Dicken raced 11 yards for a fourth quarter touchdown. The Methodists scored on two passes by Jim Stamos, 21 yards to Dan Poggemoeller and 55 yards to Anthony Mitchell.

Missouri Southern, one of four state independents, kept its record unblemished with a 14-9 decision over Emporia.

Kaysinger Teams

Will Open Play

Six of the nine Kaysinger Conference teams open play Tuesday night; all will be non-conference contests.

Stover, who returns four of their starters from last season, hosts Smithton. Lincoln is at Leeton; Ottaville visits Northwest and LaMonte plays at Green Ridge.

The balance of the league's nine members have the night off.

Sacred Heart opens at home Friday night with Climax Springs; Warsaw and Cole Camp don't begin play until the Kaysinger Conference tourney opens, Nov. 6.

Turley Brothers

Take Two Games

The Turley Brothers Independent basketball team notched two wins over the weekend in games against Knob Noster and Green Ridge.

The locals beat Knob Noster 116-78 in Friday night action with Allen Zimmersheid and Bob Goodnight each tossing in 22 points.

Ken Hamby scored 42 points and Tom Jennewins added 26 in Sunday's 130-96 pasting of Green Ridge.

The team is looking for other games this season and contests can be scheduled by calling 816-343-5733.

E-Z Speedway

Action Closes

The final race of the season took place Saturday night at the E-Z Speedway near Sedalia with racers from Kansas City, Warrensburg, Freeman and Sedalia taking part.

Fast time was by David Price with a :23.5. Price also captured the trophy dash.

Slow heat winners were John Hill, first, and Cris Schwermer, both of Sedalia.

Fast heat winners were Jim Simms, Freeman, and Bill Fizer, Warrensburg.

In the slow feature, John Hill was first, followed by Riley Crawford, Sedalia.

David Price of Kansas City took the fast feature, with Fizer taking second.

In Sunday action at the E-Z Trap Shoot Carl Heurman, Sedalia, was the best scoring shooter in the first trap shoot of the season. Also scoring well were Bud Vinson, Gary Welton and Bob Otten. Another shoot is scheduled for 10 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 5.

Sedalian Capture

Cycling Events

Sedalian dominated action in Sunday's Knights of Columbus Motocross racing south of Sedalia.

In the 100cc class, Park Denny, Sedalia, was first, followed by Dick Young, Buckner, and Tim Foster and Rusty Moore, both of Sedalia.

In the 125cc division, Bob Garner, Sedalia, was first, followed by Park Denny, Tom Monsees, both of Sedalia, Paul Allen, Osceola, and Rick Weller, Sedalia.

Joe Yeager, Sedalia, was first in the 250cc class, with Rick Yeager getting second and John White, Sedalia capturing third. Danny Hyatt, Marshall, was fourth.

In the open race, Drexel's Larry Browning was the winner, with Larry Garvin, Armstrong, second. Rick Weller was third, and Dave Dillon, Sedalia was fourth.

A $400 purse was offered in Sunday's action. Next races at the track will be Nov. 26.

Sheehan Out Fast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Sheehan says he got off to a fast start last season but then slowed down. He's off to a quick start this season and hoping nothing will slow him.

The young center for the New York Raiders scored twice in a 7-2 World Hockey Association victory over Alberta Sunday. It was his two goals within 29 seconds of the second period that ignited the Raiders from a 1-1 tie.

"I'm not really surprised by my fast start," said Sheehan. "I had a quick start last year but then I slowed down. Actually, I guess the other guys just got in shape."

The goals by Sheehan, who played last season for California of the NHL, were the eighth and ninth for the Raider center. Ron Ward also got two goals and he now has eight.

Elsewhere in the WHA, Winnipeg beat Houston 5-3 and Cleveland and Quebec tied 2-2 in overtime.

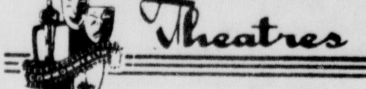

In the WHA Saturday night, Los Angeles and New York tied 3-3 in overtime. Ottawa downed Philadelphia 5-3 and Alberta whipped New England 4-1.

Winnipeg ripped off four goals in the final period to beat Houston. Norm Beaudin got two of those goals, including the winner on a power play. The Jets had tied the score 3-3 less than three minutes before on Milo Black's goal.

Winnipeg's victory was its fourth straight as it stretched its unbeaten streak to five games. The Jets got off 25 shots in the third period during their rally.

Renald Leclerc scored in the third period to pull Quebec into a tie with Cleveland. The Oswald: "Getting back to simple squeezes for a change, how about an example of an automatic squeeze where no one can possibly go wrong."

Jim: "Here's a perfect example. South has a standard no-trump. North looks at his 22 high card points, adds 22 to the 16 minimum for his partner and leaps right to seven no-trump."

Oswald: "Put another spade in either the North or South hand or give one of them the heart or club jack instead of North's spade jack and there would be 13 top tricks. As it is, South can only count on four diamonds, two spades and three each in hearts and clubs."

Jim: "If either hearts or clubs break 3-3 there is a fourth trick available in that suit, but as you can see, neither does break."

Oswald: "This doesn't make any difference to South. He simply plays out his diamonds and spades. It turns out that East holds four cards in both hearts and clubs and he has to throw away his protection in one or the other."

Jim: "The squeeze is called automatic because if West held the long clubs and hearts he would have been squeezed the same way, but if each defender was long in one key suit there would be no squeeze at all and South would pay off."

Louis Harris Survey

Believe Nixon Seeking Change

By LOUIS HARRIS

If President Nixon wins reelection a week from tomorrow, the mandate of the voters should not be interpreted as a vote for the status quo and against change. By 48-37 per cent, the voters reject the statement that "President Nixon stands too much for the status quo, for keeping things the way they are." In contrast, by 48-34 per cent, the voters agree with the statement that the Republican nominee stands for "change that works."

Sen. McGovern has been meeting resistance from the voters, on the other hand, not because he advocates change, but rather because of the character of change he represents. By 48-38 per cent, voters deny the proposition that McGovern "stands for the right kind of change." And by a substantial 58-32 per cent, they feel that the Democratic nominee "wants to change things too much."

In many ways, this election can be explained best in terms of how the two candidates have handled the issue of change.

In the case of President Nixon, there is much evidence that as an incumbent in a time of extensive alienation from all forms of national leadership, he might well have been politically vulnerable.

✓ On the "gut" issue of "keeping the economy healthy," Nixon is rated no better than 60-37 per cent negative.

✓ On "handling air and water pollution," an area in which the President vetoed a massive water pollution bill earlier this month, Nixon receives a negative rating of 54-37 per cent.

✓ On "helping curb drug abuse," the President's standing is no better than 52-40 per cent negative.

✓ On "handling crime and law and order," a key Nixon issue in 1968, the public is 61-35 per cent negative in its assessment of the President's performance.

✓ On "handling taxes and spending," Nixon comes up with a negative rating of 69-27 per cent.

If the Nixon campaign in this election depended on the claim that the people "never had it so good," there is every reason to expect that the electorate would respond with a resounding negative. Indeed, by 54-37 per cent, a majority feel that compared with 10 years ago "America is a worse place to live in."

Despite these signs of voter discontent with the President's performance on a significant band of domestic issues, Nixon has found another set of issues on which he is widely believed to have delivered a good to excellent job:

✓ By 71-24 per cent, a big majority view with favor the President's trip to Peking. His summit visit to Moscow meets with similar praise by a 69-25 per cent margin. The net result of the visits can be found in the 70-26 per cent positive response to his "handling of relations with Russia" and the 61-33 per cent positive to his "handling of relations with China."

✓ Although in a survey conducted Oct. 17 to 19 among 1,663 likely voters, President Nixon received 52-46 per cent negative marks for his "handling of the Vietnam war," the powerful impact of his Russian and Chinese journeys could be seen in the massive 67-32 per cent margin who believe he is doing a good to excellent job in "working for peace in the world." By 61-27 per cent, voters agree with the statement that Nixon "has done more for peace than any recent President."

✓ So strong is the impact of the Nixon record in foreign policy that when voters are asked to give an overall assessment of the job he has done as President, he comes up with a 59-40 per cent positive rating, a remarkable recovery from mid-summer of 1971 when his standing was no better than 53-44 per cent negative.

✓ Perhaps the key to Nixon's run in this campaign is the fact that by an overwhelming 85-10 per cent, voters agree with the claim that "he is not afraid to take decisive action, as in the wage-price freeze, and in taking trips to China and to Russia." These three dramatic moves have convinced most voters that Nixon is not wedded to "the status quo, keeping things as they are."

By contrast, as far back as early July, McGovern had impressed a majority of the voters that he "wants to change things too much." The cause of this impression appeared to be his initial program linking welfare payments to new taxes. Although he has since pulled sharply back from a $1,000 federal payment to every individual, the latest survey shows the voters believe by 61-23 per cent that McGovern's "income redistribution program is too radical."

As he has moved about the country in his bid to bring traditional Democrats back to the fold, McGovern has also run into another form of criticism. By 61-28 per cent, a majority now agree with the statement that "he seemed to be a different type of political leader, but lately he seems just another politician promising each group of voters what it wants."

Thus, McGovern has been reaping the worst of two worlds. He is viewed as an advocate of too much change, on the one hand, but when he has tried to regain traditionally Democratic blocs such as Catholics and trade union members, he is criticized for being too much a politician.

Redistricting Question Hanging Over Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Widespread redistricting and the outcome of the presidential election pose question marks over next week's voting to fill 435 House seats.

Veteran strategists for the two major political parties are fairly close to agreement that the Republicans will not upset enough Democrats to win control of the House.

Kit Bond Leading In Polls

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A new poll by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and Kansas City Star again shows the Republican nominee for governor, Christopher S. "Kit" Bond, leading his Democratic opponent Edward L. Dowd. This time Bond's lead is reported in the southwestern part of the state and in west central counties near Kansas City.

James Kirkpatrick, who is seeking re-election as secretary of state, was the only Democrat shown to be leading in the top state races.

The newspapers showed Bond with 61 per cent to Dowd's 31 per cent in the normally Republican counties of Cedar, Jasper, Newton and Lawrence.

In the heavily Democratic counties near Kansas City—Vernon, Pettis, St. Clair, Henry and Lafayette—Bond's lead was said to be 44 per cent to 40 for Dowd. A number of voters were undecided the poll showed.

In the counties surveyed, President Richard M. Nixon was seen to have a substantial lead over George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee.

It was the eighth in a series of polls by the papers, both of which have editorially endorsed Bond. A total of 667 persons were interviewed but the dates of the interviews were not announced.

To take charge, the GOP, which now has 177 members, would have to unseat Democrats in 39 districts and retain two Republican seats now vacant. Democrats hold 225 seats and have one vacancy.

Four years ago, when President Nixon was elected, Republicans had a net gain of five seats, hiking their total to 192. The largest recent gain for the GOP was in the 1966 election, from a low of 140 to 187.

Not since 1952 have Republicans controlled the House.

Strategists of the two parties predict the outcome this way: Republicans look for a net gain of about 26 seats; Democrats are reconciled to a net loss of from 12 to 15.

There is substantial agreement on which contests may produce upsets.

Democrats go into the elections with 36 candidates having no opponents and nine others facing no major-party opponents. Republicans start with seven members unopposed and one opposed by a minor-party candidate.

Close to 1,000 persons are seeking the 392 contested seats. Some of the imponderables include:

—The size of the vote and the winner of the presidency. There is agreement that polls showing Nixon with a substantial edge over Sen. George McGovern are accurate. But the experts say polls conducted by House candidates and private organizations reflect a closer division between the two parties. Only a landslide of unexpected size by Nixon would be likely to sweep the Republicans into control, the forecasters claim.

—Redistricting has reshaped the boundaries of districts in about 40 states. New voters have been added in some cases, and old ones shifted in others.

There are 11 entirely new districts: five in California, three in Florida and one each in Arizona, Colorado and Texas.

Due to retirement, redistricting, primary-election defeats and the quest for other office, incumbents will not be on the ballot in 57 districts on Nov. 7. In three districts, pairs of incumbents are opponents.

—The voting habits of young people in a national election have not been tested fully; the constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 was not in effect in 1968.

—The emotional reaction to pending settlement of the war in Indochina cannot be measured.

In the closing weeks of the campaign, Democrats have been without the services of one of their most able campaigners. Majority Leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana was lost on a plane trip to Alaska to campaign for a colleague. His speaking engagements for other Democrats were booked right up to Nov. 7.

Redistricting is the basis for victory predictions by both political parties in many areas.

In Iowa, which lost one seat because of reapportionment, incumbents Neal Smith, Democrat, and John Kyl, Republican, are running in the same district. Republicans claim Kyl has the edge.

A similar situation exists in Texas, where incumbents Graham Purcell, Democrat, and Robert Price, Republican, are running in the 13th District.

In Wisconsin, incumbents David Obey, Democrat, and Alvin O'Konski, Republican, are paired against each other because of redistricting.

Gorilla Suits Popular Item

CHICAGO (AP) — "It's always the same, gorilla-gorilla. We were out of gorilla suits the second week in October."

Marcella Hentschel's comment means Chicago area residents are going to find a lot of hairy chest-thumpers outside their doors and at their parties Halloween night.

Draculas and witches — pretty ones this year — also can be expected.

Gorillas, Dracula and the witches with nose jobs have replaced clowns and the Roaring '20s as the most popular roles for the well-dressed Halloween goblin, say costume rental proprietors here.

"What the fascination is about gorilla suits, I just don't know," said Ed Roman, manager of the House of Roman on the South Side.

At Marcella's Costumes & Party Supplies and the Broadway Costume House, Dracula rates No. 2.

In suburban Berwyn, Claire Powell, owner of the Powell Academy of Theatre Arts, said, "I hope I never see another gorilla costume. And Dracula, for that matter."

Miss Powell said the mainstay of her business, as in previous years, however, is devils and witches, now being made glamorous instead of ugly.

As in high fashion, Halloween fashions change from year to year.

"Last year it was clowns for some reason, but that's not true this year," said Miss Powell. "Roaring '20s costumes were popular, too, but that was last year."

This year, said Mrs. Hentschel, any and all varieties of animals are riding the crest of the gorillas' popularity.

All her animals — polar bears, brown bears, horses, donkeys, wolves and tigers — have been rented out. The only ones left are two mice.

A shift in the costume climate can leave a costumer with dozens of unpopular items on his hands. Roman once stocked up on Cleopatra and Lawrence of Arabia costumes, hoping to cash in on the movies' popularity.

"So what do you think the customers came in and asked for?" he asked. "Irma La Douce."

Man Is Charged In Tavern Death

CRYSTAL CITY, Mo. (AP) — James William Goforth, 26, of Crystal City, has been charged with the killing of a man outside a tavern in Farmington, Mo., Jefferson County deputies said Sunday.

Goforth was arrested in a car Friday night shortly after the shooting of Thomas D. McClaskey, 22, of Farmington, at the Canary Bar.

Two teen-agers arrested with Goforth were later released. Authorities said the motive for the shooting was being investigated.

JESSE JAMES COMES TO ENGLAND

BUXTON, England (AP) — Risks of armed robberies on banks are so high these days that clerks are entitled to danger money, says the president of the Bank Employers Union. At a conference in Derbyshire, Don Earl estimated the danger element in the job had trebled in recent years. "It is high time the public realized the increasing risks from raids that all bank men and women have to face," he says.

Viaduct Blocked

Freeman Ford, 41, 728 West Cooper, received minor injuries Monday afternoon when the car he was driving went out of control on the rainslick pavement and rammed into the side of the viaduct north of Main and Washington. Traffic was blocked for about one-half hour before the viaduct was cleared.

Places Emphasis on Morality

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern considers himself more than the Democratic presidential nominee. In his view he carries the hopes of righteousness and morality into the election one week from Tuesday.

The attitude has been implicit in his speeches and statements from the beginning. Now it is on the record.

Asked whether he views the campaign as a crusade of good against evil, and one in which the conscience of America will not let him lose, McGovern replied: "That's exactly the way I see it."

In Spokane, Wash., at a Roman Catholic university, McGovern described the choice this way: "Most of all we have a crisis of the spirit right here in our country that challenges every thoughtful American in this land, the question of whether we're going to stand for decency, for equality, for justice and these old-fashioned ideals that provide the underpinning of our society, or whether we're going to vote for four more years of the kind of manipulation and deceit and deception that has cursed this country ever since January of 1969."

That is when President Nixon took office.

Many a politician has claimed to offer the voters political salvation. To that, McGovern adds what he acknowledged to be the unique concept of moral salvation at the polling booth.

That outlook permeates the campaign of the Methodist minister's son who once studied for the clergy himself.

"Abraham Lincoln once was asked if he thought God was on his side," McGovern said in Seattle Saturday night. "Lincoln replied, 'I am much more interested in making sure that I am on the side of God.' That is what our country needs."

Quoting Franklin D. Roosevelt, McGovern said the presidency "is pre-eminently a place of moral leadership, and that is the kind of president I want to be."

That outlook accounts for the absolute terms in which he describes what he considers to be the evils of Nixon's leadership.

He has judged Nixon's the most corrupt administration in American history, saying that for the first time "we have officials right at the top of the government who have betrayed their public trust."

McGovern has termed Nixon's bombing of Southeast Asia "the most evil thing ever done by an American president."

Another president, Lyndon B. Johnson, first ordered the bombing of North Vietnam. McGovern opposed it then, too.

McGovern recounts the story of a black man telling him in New York that the election "will literally break your heart" because the voters are satisfied with Nixon's leadership.

"I happen to think the American people are better than that," McGovern said.

Because of this attitude, McGovern said, he could not in defeat urge the American people to unite behind Nixon even if the President proves to be the choice of the majority.

In an interview with The Associated Press, McGovern said the things that Nixon's administration has done are evil. "I don't like to make judgment on the man himself."

Party Perfect Sandwiches

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Children love parties and professional party planners pass along a few tips to cut down on wear-and-tear on adults. Since a child's concentration span usually is brief, plan short games. Provide a prize for every child and serve plenty of snacks using disposable paper plates and cups. Both boys and girls will enjoy Merry-maker Sandwiches filled with corned beef, sweet pickle relish and American cheese. Serve with cider or a fruit punch.

MERRYMAKER SANDWICHES

1 4½-ounce can corned beef spread
1 tablespoon sweet pickle relish, drained
4 frankfur rolls
½ cup grated process American cheese

Combine corned beef spread and relish; fill frankfur rolls with corned beef mixture. Top with grated cheese. Chill and serve. Makes four sandwiches. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Teachers Celebrate 25 Years

The 25th anniversary of the National Retired Teachers Organization was celebrated Tuesday with a tea at the home of Miss Hazel Gray, president of the Community Retired Teachers Organization.

Offering received at the tea is being sent to the national headquarters for the establishment of the Ethel Percy Andress Gerontology Center at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles.

In charge of the tea were Mrs. Thelma Cook, Mrs. Lee Steele, Miss Hazel Barnett, Miss Catherine Gardner, Mrs. Lucille Hudson, Miss Sarah Phillips and Miss Catherine Garman.

If you want to frost that cake before freezing, use an uncooked frosting because it will freeze better than the cooked variety.

Chew!

Long-holding FASTEETH Powder. It takes the worry out of wearing dentures.

A Tricky Treat

Corned beef and American cheese make good party sandwich filling sure to please Halloween party goers. Here the sandwiches are accompanied by apple cider. (NEA)

PETTIS COUNTY DEMOCRATIC LEADERSHIP —
Dedicated To FAIR & EQUAL TAXES

JERRY E. TROTTER
Candidate for
PETTIS COUNTY ASSESSOR

For six years Jerry Trotter and his trained staff have waged a successful battle on behalf of the taxpayers of Pettis County to keep the lid on the valuation of rural and city property.

Jerry Trotter has pledged a new system of ongoing reassessment when Pettis is made a Second Class County, eliminating present statutory limitation on reassessment of Third Class Counties.

Although it is a most difficult office to administer, Jerry Trotter has treated people fairly, honestly and equally.

- ★ Qualified through experience
- ★ Educational background in business

How Do YOU Feel About Diverting Highway Funds?

"We have a need for mass transit systems, but unlike my opponent, I do not believe Highway funds should be diverted." That's how Ed Dowd feels about diverting highway funds for mass transit! He also says, "Missouri's highways are the best in the nation . . . but they would be destroyed by taking away their funds . . . other sources must be found." If that's the way you feel about diverting highway funds for mass transit, then Ed Dowd's your man for Missouri's Governor.

ED DOWD

Sure, the people of Missouri want a change. But we all know a change for change's sake isn't the answer. The real answer lies with a mature man of Ed Dowd's unquestioned good character. The son and grandson of policemen . . . a father who understands . . . a man who didn't inherit a thing except an honest respect for the working man, a compassion for those less fortunate and a sincere willingness to help. We can trust Ed Dowd to do the right thing for all the people. Be sure November 7. Vote for Ed Dowd, Democrat for Governor.

Masquerade

Party at Maxine's

A Halloween masquerade party, which is open to the public, will be held Tuesday at Maxine's Gourmet House.

Prizes will be awarded for the best costume and also for the best couple's costume, it was reported. Judging will be at 10:30 p.m.

Recipe for Morning Coffee

By CECILY BROWNSTONE.
AP Food Writer
MORNING COFFEE
Cinnamon Apricot Ring Coffee
CINNAMON APRICOT RING.
It's a yeast coffee cake ring but it's easy to prepare.
1 package (13¾ ounces) hot roll mix
¾ cup apricot preserves
6 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon cinnamon

Prepare hot roll mix as label directs; let rise; roll to a rectangle (16 by 10 inches). Spread with preserves; dot with butter and sprinkle with cinnamon. Starting from long end, roll up in jelly-roll fashion. Place seam side down in circle on a greased cookie sheet. Let rise in a warm place until doubled—1 hour. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Makes about 12 portions.

To give yeast breads a rich glossy color, brush with beaten egg about 15 minutes before end of baking time.

Wealth of Ideas For Paper Tubes

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Patti that I use tubes from paper towels (her wrapping paper tubes could be cut to the proper length) to wrap up rolled-out pie crust to be used later. I cover the tube with waxed paper or plastic wrap and place another piece on top and then roll the crust on the covered tube. If necessary, use another paper (I prefer plastic wrap) and wrap it all so it is airtight and then put in the refrigerator. When ready to use, remove from the refrigerator early enough for the crust to be room temperature before being unrolled to put in the pie pan. Often I roll two or three crusts on the same tube and find they keep a week. Saves space and time when you want pie during a busy season. — GRAMS

DEAR POLLY and Patti — Wrapping paper tubes are excellent for storing linens. After ironing, roll them around a tube, store and eliminate any creases. I have also used them for making large Christmas candles to use outdoors. Cover with bright red paper, stick a bit of yellow paper in the top for a wick and perhaps add a bow and the base. An aluminum pie plate makes a good holder. Large paper documents can be kept clean and unfolded if stored in such tubes. — RUTH

DEAR POLLY and Patti — I use the smaller paper tubes for packing trousers or other clothing to keep creases out of the folds. Insert the tube inside the fold just as it would be on a hanger. Assorted lengths of tubes can be cut to various lengths and jewelry packed in them to prevent wreckage while on a trip. Slit such tubes length-wise and slip over the clothesline when you want to hang an article and prevent a wash-line mark while drying. Do not use colored ones for this or they might fade. — EUNICE

GRANTMASTER TIRE GUARANTEE

1. Tread Life Guarantee Against Road Hazards
We guarantee all Grantmaster tires against failures from all normal road hazards for the life of the tread with the exception of: ordinary nail punctures, fire, theft, front-end misalignment, under-inflation, over-inflation and running flat.

2. Tread Life Guarantee Against Defects
We guarantee the Grantmaster tires, against all defects of material and workmanship, for the life of the tread.

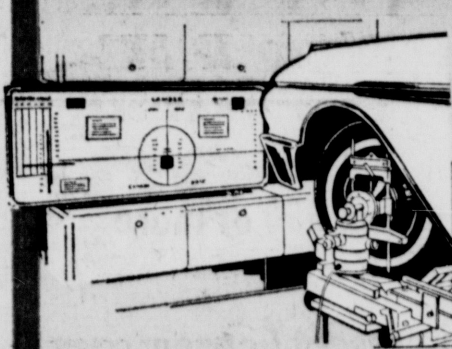

Basis of Adjustment: Should your Grantmaster tire require adjustment under Section 1 or 2 of the Guarantee, please return it to Grants and we will replace it by giving you a proportionate allowance for the unused tread, based on the current selling price, including Federal Excise Tax.

3. Guaranteed Against Tread Wear
The original tread is guaranteed not to wear out for the number of months designated. If tread wears out during this period, the tire should be returned to Grants and we will replace it, charging the current regular selling price plus Federal Excise Tax less the following percentage allowance toward the purchase of a new tire.

Tire Guarantee	Allowance
18-27 Months	10%
28-40 Months	25%

This guarantee covers tires in passenger car service only. Passenger car tires used in commercial service reduce the guarantee period by 50%.
